Living Safely with Animals

Since 1974 the Colorado Annual Zoonoses Conference has brought public health and animal control professionals together to provide an exceptional educational opportunity on zoonotic disease issues of mutual interest. This conference is co-sponsored by Aurora Animal Control, Tri-County Health Department, and the Colorado Department of Public Health and Environment. Our goal is excellent value for a low cost - $25 for early registration, or $35 if received after March 26, 2010. This fee includes lunch.

This year we are full of exciting changes starting with our new venue! We welcome several zoonotic topics presented by some of our newest committee members including our new State Public Health Veterinarian, Dr. Elisabeth Lawaczek. We will learn about many recent events that have occurred due to our intensifying coexistence with animals in both public and private settings, including an outbreak at our very own National Western Stock Show. Finally, we will round out the day with a special appearance by a member of the canine military service.

Please send in your registration form as soon as possible. Continuing education (CE) credits from the National Environmental Health Association (NEHA) and veterinary CEUs from the State Board will be offered to interested persons. For questions regarding registration, please contact Barb Jones, Aurora Animal Care Division at 303-326-8290.
